

Prison Rape Elimination Act 2014 Annual Report

Montana Department of Corrections
Andrew Jess, PREA Coordinator

Our Mission

Together we enhance public safety, support victims of crime, promote positive change in offender behavior, and reintegrate offenders into the community.

Purpose

The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) requires that each facility collect and review data "...in order to assess and improve the effectiveness of its sexual abuse prevention, detection, and response policies, practices, and training" (Standard 115.88 a).

This overview is intended to:

- Identify problem areas and corrective action taken on an ongoing basis for each facility and the agency as a whole;
- Preserve current year's data and corrective actions for comparison with future years; and
- Assess the agency's progress in addressing sexual abuse (Standard 115.88 a and b).

This report provides information for calendar year 2014.

Background

PREA was signed into federal law in September 2003 following unanimous support from both parties in Congress.

The purpose of the act was to "provide for the analysis of the incidence and effects of prison rape in federal, state, and local institutions and to provide information, resources, recommendations and funding to protect individuals from prison rape" (Prison Rape Elimination Act, 2003). PREA seeks to establish a zero-tolerance policy regarding rape and sexual abuse in federal, state, county, and city correctional systems, including prisons, jails, police lock-ups, and other confinement facilities for adults and juveniles. PREA also mandated the publication of standards to ensure compliance and to improve prevention, detection, and response strategies in addressing sexual abuse and assault.

The final rules/standards were published in the federal register on June 20, 2012, and became effective on August 20, 2012. Standards require annual audits of one-third of the facilities under the agency's jurisdiction, along with Governor Certification of statewide compliance in all facilities under the operational control of the state's executive branch, including private facilities operated on behalf of the executive branch to house offenders. Failure to comply with standards will result in a loss of 5 percent of identified federal grant funding.

Agency Achievements in 2014

2014 DOC PREA Progress:

The position of PREA coordinator was vacant from mid-2013 until January 6, 2014. At that time Mr. Jess reviewed the progress previously made in PREA compliance. While a lot of work has gone into PREA preparation and training, much remains to be accomplished.

Priorities for 2014:

1. Review and update DOC policy and facility procedures.
2. Complete a pre-audit or assessment of all DOC facilities.
3. Establish a method to gather PREA data from the facilities.
4. Achieve auditor certification for DOC staff.
5. Secure funding for PREA audits.

Achievements:

1. DOC policy has been updated. Procedures for Montana State Prison (MSP), Montana Women's Prison (MWP) and Riverside Youth Correctional Facility (RYCF) have been updated.
2. Prep audits have been conducted at MSP, MWP and RYCF.
3. Utilizing the state-wide Y drive, we now have a spreadsheet for real-time reporting.
4. PREA coordinator Andy Jess and Quality Assurance Coordinator Jeff Holland are now certified federal PREA auditors, Jess for youth and adult secure facilities and Holland for youth facilities.
5. In the 2014 PREA grant, we have $90,000 budgeted each year over the biennium for audits.

FACILITIES

Montana State Prison

Montana State Prison (MSP) in Deer Lodge, MT, is the largest correctional facility in the state, housing nearly 1,500 male inmates in a 68-acre compound designed to handle all custody levels: maximum, close, medium and minimum. Montana State Prison and its staff of about 640 uniformed and non-uniformed employees serve the citizens of Montana by providing a secure correctional environment that supports public safety by encouraging positive offender change.

The prison is divided into three compounds: low side, high side and locked housing. Within those custody levels are different types of supervision. Inmates range from general and special management populations to inmates housed for pre-hearing confinement, detention or those in locked housing due to ongoing or serious behavior management problems.

Montana State Prison uses a unit management structure that is ultimately managed by a warden, four associate wardens and three bureau chiefs. Outside the fenced perimeter is a 192-bed Work and Reentry Center, which houses minimum-custody inmates who work on the 35,000-acre ranch and dairy program operated by Montana Correctional Enterprises (MCE).

Montana Women’s Prison

Montana Women’s Prison (MWP) transferred to Billings in 1994 from Warm Springs, MT. It is a 194-bed secure facility that operates consistently at or over capacity, with approximately 200 female felony inmates. Montana Women's Prison has a staff of about 92, including 20 contract personnel. The main prison building has an intake area and eight housing units that have varying levels of security for different classifications of inmates. Another building within the secure, fenced perimeter is used for programming and work activities. Five low-security units at MWP house minimum- and medium-custody prisoners. The units have capacities ranging from 24 to 40 inmates. Prisoners needing a higher level of custody are held in another unit. The prison also has two locked units, where inmates have fewer privileges and are generally confined to their cells because of disciplinary or behavioral problems. The locked units can each house up to 11 inmates.

Treasure State Correctional Training Center

Treasure State Correctional Training Center (TSCTC) in Deer Lodge, MT, is a holistic environment geared toward positive change, self-respect, discipline, accountability and responsibility. It is a correctional re-entry program that emphasizes restorative justice and cognitive programming through a structured and disciplinary environment that emphasizes responsibility and accountability.

TSCTC's goal is to change the criminal thinking patterns of men and women in order for them to become safe, contributing members of society. During their participation in this program, trainees are confronted when their behavior and attitudes are not in line with the program's overall goals. Staff members who guide the trainees are expected to be demanding, not demeaning. Trainees are expected to perform duties and physical exercise they never thought possible. They can build self-respect and integrity. A trainee who pays attention, internalizes the program, and makes a commitment to change can graduate and become a solid and productive citizen.

Riverside Youth Correctional Facility

The Riverside Youth Correctional Facility (RYCF) is the State of Montana’s secure correctional facility for adjudicated delinquent females between the ages of 10 and 18. The facility is located just off of Highway 69, in Boulder, MT. The program, with 20 beds, provides care, supervision and treatment to youth in a manner that recognizes the unique needs of females. The program operates under the Relationship Based theory, recognizing the ongoing research that supports this approach as being the most effective when working with females. Using research-based cognitive restructuring curriculum and reality-based counseling techniques, the program places a strong emphasis on youth accepting responsibility for their actions, regaining trust, and developing individual competencies, including long-term educational goals, which will help them choose to make pro-social choices in the future. The program also recognizes that females in the correctional system often deal with trauma from prior sexual/physical abuse and incorporates trauma recognition/recovery as a topic in various groups. The youth are challenged to fully realize and utilize their talents, knowledge, abilities and skills in the facility and upon release to meet their work, education and personal goals.
